PRC in top 30 of competitiveness rankings

全球竞争力报告发布

中国大陆跻身30强

People's Republic of China improves its ranking by four places from No.34 of last year and joins the top 30 of the 134 global economics, according to the Global Competitiveness Report 2008-2009, announced on October 8 by the Geneva-based World Economic Forum.

The Report says, with annual average growth rates of 9.7 percent since the late 1970s, China has made impressive strides in developing and diversifying its economy, as well as in reducing poverty and improving standards of living for its population. Its enormous GDP makes China one of the largest economies in the world, behind only the United States, Japan, and Germany, and an increasingly key player in the global economy. The size of the (domestic and export) market available to the companies established in its territory is second only to that of the United States globally, allowing extraordinary economies of scale and efficiency gains

Nil relevant IPR complaint filed during Olympics

he administration for industry and commerce (AIC) nounced during its internal awarding ceremony on October 7, no IPR complaint was received from the three main sources during the Olympics. No international brand filed on key regions and markets. No partners, suppliers and sponsors filed. Domestic and visiting consumers also helped created the zero record.

The successful protection of Olympic IPRs could be contributed to the intensive market watch by the AICs. For instance, the authorities checked 142,576 items/times of advertisement to ensure no infringement ever occurred. Beijing AICs removed 2,020 pieces of outdoor boards with unqualified advertisement to enforce the city's temporary regulations on outdoor advertisement.

Rosemount suit begins second instance he three parties in the Rosemount case saw eye to eye in court again. After appealing to the Shanghai High People's Court, the disgruntled Shanghai RSMT Instrument, September 25, joined rivals US Rosemount and Beijing Far East Rosemount Instrument in the second instance hearing.

Shanghai RSMT began use "罗 斯蒙特 " (pronounces Rosemount) as its trade name after registration in November 2004 and manufactured and sold products identical with or similar to those of Beijing Rose-

During the first instance, US Rosemount and Beijing Rosemount argued for unfair competition and sought cease of using Rosemount or any other confusing words in the defendant's trade names, cease of manufacturing and distribution of infringing products and 500,000 yuan in damages. After examination, Shanghai No.1 Intermediate People's Court verified the evidences produced by the plaintiffs. Unfair competition is constituted. The defendant is ordered to cease use of the Rosemount trade name, manufacture and distribution of relevant infringing products and to indemnify the plaintiffs 100,000 yuan in damages.
